Press Release

Award winning designer and installer, Dennis Kading has been installing natural aquatic ecosystems for more than a decade. Natural looking koi ponds and waterfalls are his specialty, in low maintenance landscaping. Dennis believes in working with Mother Nature – not against her.

Dennis' commitment to using Aquascape Designs' systems and components for over 700 installations in the greater San Gabriel Valley, have made him nationally recognized. Even though he is not a franchise for Aquascape Designs, Dennis chooses to use this system, philosophies, and equipment, because they work. With these systems, you add no chemicals to your water feature. Everything is balanced by nature.

With his expertise and accreditation, it has given him an opportunity to install a "Pondless Waterfall®" at Puddingstone Lake. A favorite recreational spot to visit as a child, Puddingstone Lake has many memories for Dennis. Now, he can add one as an adult. "Being able to add to the great natural landscape here at Bonelli Park, is an honor. To see that it looks like it has been here from the beginning, is what we've done. Having people look at this, and know that they can have a piece of this natural paradise in their own back yard, is the goal." Dennis said. "You can escape from the real world – even if it is only for a few minutes each day! Relaxing by their water feature watching fish, turtles, and frogs splash around, people become stress free." In a recent USA Today poll, water features were the number one addition to a homeowner's landscaping.

Ten years since his first installation, Dennis has recently expanded his expertise and now has a new retail store open. Located in Glendora, at 512 S. Glendora Ave, Dennis has returned to his home town hoping to continue a trend in low maintenance landscaping.
